WINNERS ANNOUNCED FOR TOI'S DURGE DEVI NAMASTUTE CONTEST AS PUJA NEARS END | 4

Durga devotion in MANY HUES

Over two days, a TOI team criss-crossed the city and visited Noida and Gurgaon to tell you which are the best pandals and idols this year. The wait is about to end.

DURGE DEVI NAMASTUTE
THE TIMES OF INDIA

spired awe. It was made like a cave with idols seemingly carved out of stone. And there were not just the idols of Ma Durga, Goddesses Saraswati and Lakshmi, and lord Ganesha and Kartik, but 10 other statues too depicting the gods who had provided weapons to Durga when she was going to kill Mahishasura. As the third-prize winners, the organisers got Rs 21,000.

Besides these prizes, there were zonal winners for the best idol too. While the Agrani Durga Puja Samiti in Rohini won the best idol prize in the north zone, Noida Bangiya Samiti, sector-34, was the winner in the east.

The idol of the Paschim Vihar Bengali Association was rated as the best in west Delhi while Matri Mandir Sarbojanin Durga Puja Samiti won in the south zone and the Dakshin Gurgaon Puja Committee won the best idol prize in Gurgaon. Each of the winners will get Rs 11,000 as prize money.

Another puja just a few blocks away aimed at an old Bengali art. The puja set up by the Paschim Vihar Bengali Association is built in the form of a temple made with 'paat kathi' or jute stick. "Forty-five artistes worked for four months to make this pandal. They used an art which is gradually dying," said president Mahadev Das.
